

Desk Mats

Protective desk mats are now recognized as an important accessory for many offices and work environments, not only to protect desk tops but also to give people a more comfortable work surface. They help to prevent keyboards, mice and other desktop accessories from slipping on the desk surface, and they are water-resistant against liquid spillage.

Mapal's protective desk mats are offered in different sizes, colors and thicknesses, and come with practical rounded corners. They can be treated with an anti-slip coating on the underside, or embossed with a range of finishes to ensure that they remain firmly in place.

Polypropylene is a better and more environmentally friendly material than PVC, and has superior qualities of durability and scratch resistance. Polypropylene desk mats are also hygienic and easy to clean.
